

CALLING ALL COUNTY'S TO DISPLAY THEIR PROJECT DESIGNS

A Really Big Prize Awaits First-place Winner(s)

CRAB would like to invite all Counties to participate in our 1st annual project design competition (PDC). The spirit of this new project session is one of inclusiveness amongst the county design community. The goal is to display County projects to provide visual demonstrations of information in regard to engineering ideas, deliverables, and accomplishments with the best one will take home a trophy and a "Really Big Prize" *. We welcome county projects of a specialized or experimental nature; work concerning new features, design elements, methods, or processes; and works in progress. If you have an original, interesting project, you will have a good chance of being selected. And most of all, since this is a design conference, we want to increase everyone's awareness of the professionalism and accomplishments that Washington County design folks are providing in their everyday duties and to be given the recognition rightly deserved.

One project per County, no more than 24 x 36 inches, as part of your display so that we can attach them to the walls along with an 8x11 report describing the project and design process to include;

- Overview Information
 - Title of project.
 - Name of the County
- Full contact information on the a description of the county participation efforts (number of members and time committed)
- Project summary details (as an attachment)
- An explanation on the economics of the product in terms of costs and potential value added to the public.
- One or two innovative points
- Bring plenty of copies of your design on 11"x17" to share with other Counties who like your CADD so that they can incorporate your great ideas into their future plans.

Projects will be placed on display in throughout the conference period in Stehekin B, made available for viewing, during which time participants will circulate and talk to individual counties in an informal manner. The posters will then remain available to conference participants throughout the conference and after carefull investigation will be voted careful scrutiny and examinationon by your peers, they will be voted upon. There will only be allowed one vote per participant which they will indicate by putting a red sticker dot on the poster that will be provided in their registration packet at the first day. The winning County will be announced at the wrap-up session on the final day of the conference.
